COUNCIL BEGINS WAR ON THIEVES

Bicycle And Ricsha Owners Are Warned To Use More Precaution

As a result of a campaign inaugurated by the Police against bicycle thieves who have been operating in the International Settlement for several months and have attained an average of six machines a day, the Municipal Council has been stirred into action. An order has been issued warning the owners of bicycles and ricshas to take proper precautions in order that it will not be necessary to insist on license plates and numbers.

The notification, published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette, reads:

"The theft of bicycles and private ricshas continues to be a frequent occurrence, the Police warnings in previous months having apparently failed to attract the necessary attention. Owners are warned not to leave these vehicles unattended and unsecured in the roadway or in the hallways of offices or public buildings.

"The time may soon arrive when the Police will have to be empowered to bring to the Station any vehicles seen on the streets unprotected and in view of the number of bicycles now being used in the Settlement, it may be necessary, in the interests of the owners and the public, to license them and compel the fixing of an identification number plate."

During their stay in Shanghai they plan to give a week's program, including two glee nights and a minstrel show. The troupe includes, besides singers, a number of "stunt" men and a ten-piece "Jazz" orchestra.

It is probable that during their stay in Shanghai the American University Club will give an informal reception for the club and also for the Chinese students who are to go to American universities this fall.

GRAFT CHARGES MADE AGAINST CHINA LEADERS

Charges that Dr. Sun Yat-sen has been promised by Tuan Chi-jui, the Anfu warlord, $800,000 a year for traveling expenses in Europe and America and that Mr. Tang Shao-yi is abandoning his peace terms for the sake of political power were made in a manifesto Monday issued by Tsen Chun-hsuan, Lu Yung-ting, Lin Pao-yi and Wen Tsung-yao, administrative directors of Canton.

The manifesto further accused of Drs. Wu Ting-fang and Wu Chao-chu of having run away with public funds and accuses the speakers of the old Parliament of having embezzled the treasury of Parliament.

It alleged that a secret understanding had already been arrived at between General Wang Yi-tang and Mr. Tang Shao-yi, the peace delegates at Shanghai, as to the terms of internal tranquality. The terms, it is said, included the election of Tuan Chi-jui as President, the appointment of Wang Yi-tang as Premier and Mr. Tang Shao-yi as Minister of Foreign Affairs. In return for his support of the arrangement, Dr. Sun is to receive an annual income from Peking of $300,000, the manifest declares.

BRITAIN PREPARES TO RETAIN PLACE IN SEAPOWER LIST

'All In All To Empire,' Says Lord Jellicoe, And Lauds Merchant Fleet

CANADA WANTS NAVY

Is Opposed To Single-Navy Plan—British Army May Be Reduced

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 12.—Speaking at the annual dinner of the Royal Colonial Institute yesterday, Lord Selborne urged that one of the lessons of the war was the necessity of settling plans for mutual imperial Defence beforehand. The ideal of the League of Nations, he added, could only be maintained if behind it was the British Empire, determined to make it good and organised for the purpose. It was for each part of the Empire to settle for itself the manner and nature of its defence, and the schemes should then be co-ordinated.

LAUDS SEA POWER

Lord Jellicoe, responding, said that he had found in the Dominions a great realisation of the fact that seapower was all in all to the British Empire. The use of the sea depended, he said, on the strength of the Mercantile Marine, whose deeds in the war would never be forgotten. He urged the necessity of organising the naval defense of the Empire, in which the views of all parts of the Empire would have to be consulted.

Lord Jellicoe expressed the hope that in the discussions, which would take place in the near future, no parochialism would be displayed.

CANADA TALKS

Ottawa, June 14.—In the Dominion House of Commons, Mr. C. C. Balantyne, Minister for Naval Service, introducing the naval estimates, outlined the negotiations between the Dominions and the Admiralty on the subject of naval defense.

He said that, following the Imperial War Conference of 1918, the Dominions' prime ministers submitted a memorandum declaring that the proposals contained in the previous Admiralty memorandum for a single navy, at all times under a central naval authority, were not considered practicable.

The experience of the war, the memorandum continued had shown that a Dominion navy, such as the Australian, could operate with the highest efficiency as part of a united navy under one direction established after the outbreak of war.

The memorandum concluded that, as the naval forces of the Overseas Dominions came to be developed, or it might be necessary hereafter to consider the establishment, for war purposes, of a supreme naval authority on which the Admiralty and the Dominions were represented.

HARDING CHOSEN AS COMPROMISE, IS DEDUCTION

G.O.P. Candidate Is Printer By Trade And Owner Of Small Daily

FOR "AMERICA FIRST"

Nominations Marked By Splendid Oratory; Ten Ballots Were Cast

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—It appears that the selection of Senator Warren G. Harding as Republican candidate for the United States presidency was the result of an agreement behind the scenes favoring Senator Harding as a compromise choice.

Senator Harding is the son of a country doctor and a mother of Dutch extraction. He earned the money to pay for his own education and was a student at Ohio Central College, no longer in existence, for three years, graduating from that institution.

The candidate is a practical pressman and an expert printer, being owner of the Ohio Star at Marion, Ohio, director of a bank and several large manufacturing plants, and trustee of the Baptist Church at Marion.

Senator Harding was Lieut.-Governor of Ohio from 1904 to 1906 and was elected to the United States Senate in 1914, by a majority of over 100,000 votes. He is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Republican standard-bearer is not personally committed to any definite policy, although bound by the party platform, but is regarded as standing for "America first" and "no interference in foreign affairs."

FORCIBLE ORATORY

Chicago, June 12.—The speeches, nominating the various candidates at the Republican Convention, were traditionally forcible and picturesque. Governor Allen, nominating General Wood, declared him to be the "outstanding candidate and the best-known American statesman and military leader."

Mr. Rodenberg likened Governor Lowden to President Lincoln and added: "For seven years the ship of State has been straining every timber and drifting in a sea of uncertainty. The pilot is confused and bewildered by strange voices and false lights."

Mr. Charles Wheeler, presenting Senator Johnson, hailed him as the "man to scourge the last bosses from the Republican temple." "Senator Johnson," he added, "is a leader who knows so well how to wield the political cudgel that even a party of knaves are forced to play the game."

NAMES HARDING

Mr. Frank B. Willis, ex-Governor of Ohio, named Senator Harding, declaring that he was the man to save American institutions "in these days when Bolshevism and Anarchy stalk, fiery-eyed and militant, across the planet and even dare to shake their bristly hair in our own country."

HISTORY OF VOTE

Chicago, June 13.—At the Republican National Convention, Senator Harding began to emerge from the crowd in the sixth ballot and gradually crept up until the ninth ballot, when he obtained 374½ votes, General Leonard Wood 249, and Governor Lowden 121½.

The flatter then released his delegates and Governor Sproul followed, releasing 78 Pennsylvanians.

Senator Harding's victory came on the tenth ballot, the figures being Senator Harding 692, General Leonard Wood 156, Governor Lowden 11.

Whereabouts Of Deposed Hunan Tuchun Is Mystery

Conflicting reports have been received in Shanghai concerning the fate of Chang Ching-yao, the fleeing Hunan Tuchun. Several despatches say that he is in Yochow gathering 20,000 troops to conduct a desperate march on Changsha in an effort to recapture the capital while others say that he is now taking refuge in a gunboat near Chenlingchi in the suburbs of Yochow.

The fact that the Northern troops under General Li Kwei-yuen are evacuating Siangyin, between Changsha and Yochow renders the first reports improbable as nowhere since the fall of three little cities of Anjen, Kiyang and Leiyang have the Northern soldiers displayed any power of resistance.

General Tang Yen-kai, who has been appointed Governor of Hunan by the Southern administration, has openly declared he does not propose to press on any further as he has orders from the Southern camp that he should refrain from taking any offensive. Out of mere timidity, he alleges, the northern forces are evacuating in cities North of the Hunan Capital.

General Wang Chuan-yuan Tuchun of Hupeh, has declined the appointment made by Peking to be Inspector-General of Hupeh and Hunan. He said that he is unable to govern two provinces at the same time and that as General Tsao Kun is Inspector of Chihli, Honan, Hupeh and Hunan, his appointment might infringe on the latter's authorities.

SPA CONFERENCE LIKELY IN JULY

Waiting For New German Constitution, Premier Tells Commons

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—In the House of Commons today, replying to a question, Mr. Lloyd George said that a definite date had not yet been fixed for the Spa Conference, pending the constitution of the new German Government but that it would probably be early in July.

Replying to Sir Harry Britain, Mr. Lloyd George stated that the British Government had contributed £23,000 to the funds of the League of Nations during the last financial year. The Government had no information with regard to the amount, subscribed or guaranteed by other nations.

Mr. Bonar Law announced that an Autumn session was inevitable.

ADVANCE MEETING

Paris, June 15.—It will be recalled that at the close of the meeting between Mr. Lloyd George and M. Millerand at Folkestone, it was agreed that the two Premiers should meet again before the Spa Conference. It is understood that the meeting will probably take place at Boulogne-sur-Mer on Monday, June 21, although Mr. Lloyd George has not yet definitely agreed to this date.

The preliminary conversations to the Spa Conference will be held in Brussels on July 2, between the French and British Ministers.

Paris, June 13.—The Reparations Commission has approved the provisional arrangement for the distribution of surrendered German oil-tankers whereby France obtains control of 17,000 tons, Belgium 12,000 tons and Italy 9,000 tons. The United States opposed assignment of the vessels, until American interests were safeguarded.

The cooking arrangements of 200,000 families are affected by the strike. One thousand factory hands are idle.

Bolshevist Division In Dvina Said To Be Retreating

General Brusiloff Asks All Russians To Join "Red" Party

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 13.—The Observer understands that the Poles have evacuated Kieff owing to the advance of the Bolsheviks, which was threatening to cut off their retreat. The Bolsheviks have cut the Koroston-Kieff railway, the principal Polish line of communication from the west and have also seized Fastoff, southwest of Kieff, the most important railway junction in this region.

REPORT CONFIRMED

Warsaw, June 14.—An official communique issued today says:

"The Poles, in conformity with their orders, have begun to evacuate Kieff after destroying the bridges across the Dnieper.

"The evacuation is proceeding in the most orderly manner. The enemy attacked our rear-guards, but was repulsed with great loss."

(Later).—An official communique says:

"The enemy vainly tried to break our front in Polesia. A thousand Bolshevists who had crossed the Dnieper suffered very heavily, only 200 reaching the shore, many of whom were drowned in attempting to return.

"The Polish withdrawal in the Ukraine continues according to plan and in the most orderly manner."

FIGHTING HARD

Warsaw, June 13.—An official communique issued here today says:

"Between the Dvina and the Upper Beresina the Poles are pursuing the retreating enemy. It is confirmed that the Bolshevik shock troops are led by German officers.

"This army is retiring in the direction of Polock, systematically destroying roads and bridges and burning villages. The rest of the Bolshevik division is retiring in disorder."

CHARGE VANDALISM

London, June 14.—The Bolshevik wireless reports that, before evacuating Kieff, the Poles destroyed the chief points in the city, including the cathedral, the railway-station and the aqueduct.

"WORST EVILS"

London, June 13.—The Interim report of the British Labor Delegation to Russia declares that the policy of intervention and blockade are "the worst evils afflicting Russia." There is a virtual famine among the urban population and epidemics have swept the country owing to the absence of disinfectants.

The report praises "the successful efforts at reconstruction" following on the defeats of General Yudenitch, Admiral Kolchak and General Denikin. These efforts had to be abandoned owing to the resumption of hostilities by Poland, which provided new pretexts for placing restrictions on individual liberty. These conditions, the report asserts, cannot be changed while war continues.

DEMAND REMOVAL

The report demands the removal of the last vestige of blockade and intervention, and unconditional recognition of the present Russian Government, which it declares, "has proved its stability, repeatedly shown its will to peace, and made vigorous efforts in the direction of economic reconstruction."

WRANGLE ATTACKS

Constantinople, June 12.—As already reported, General Wrangel has opened the offensive against the Bolsheviks. He has achieved his first objective, capturing Melitopol, with 5,000 prisoners, 27 guns and 5 armored trains. General Wrangel's casualties totaled 500.

SIX CENTS MORE A DAY IS OFFERED TO STRIKERS

Masters And Workers Meet Yesterday And Agreed On Figure

RETURNEXPECTED

Average Wage Formerly Paid Was About 36 Cents Day

The carpenters and masons' strike probably will end this morning as the result of a meeting of representatives of the strikers and directors of the contractors' Guild at the Yih Ping Shang Hotel yesterday. A six-cent a day wage increase was agreed on after a heated debate between the masters and the employes. The wage of carpenters and masons has averaged around 30 cents a day in the past.

Over 400 attended the meeting which was highly animated. Fourteen representatives of the strikers and 195 contractors were present. Others were spectators, newspapermen, detectives, owners and officers of the municipal public works department.

ONLY POOTUNG MEN

A significant fact was that among the representatives of the strikers, only the Pootung men attended. No Ningpo representatives were sent.

The meeting opened with speeches by Mr. Kiang Yu-sung, Mr. Koo Lan-chow and Chang Yao-liang, directors of the Contractors' Guild, who pointed out the difficulties of complying with the request of the workmen for more money in view of the approaching festival. However, none of them wanted to be unreasonable to the employes as their own trade is dependent on the workmen. They resented the conduct of the strikers in leaving their jobs without notice and suggested that the balloting system be used for the decision on the amount of increase that the contractors should be called on to pay.

RETURNS GREATLY VARIED

The first returns showed a wide range of difference. Of the 106 votes cast, one favored an increase of 23 coppers, seven wanted six cents, four for five cents, 19 for four cents, 25 for three cents, 30 for two and half cents, 19 for two cents and one for one cent.

While the ballots were being counted, the representatives of both sides had tea and refreshments. When the results were announced, the meeting was resumed. After some discussion, it was decided to fix the increase at six cents.

A large number of police and detectives were present throughout the meeting.

RICE COMMITTEE FORMED

A permanent committee has been formed to look after the question of local food supply at a meeting called by Magistrate Shen Pao-chang yesterday. The committee, with the magistrate as chairman and consisting of the chairmen of the Chambers of Commerce, the committee of the rice guilds and prominent merchants will meet every moon on the 10th, 20th and 30th, or 29th in case of a "small moon." The place of meeting will be at the Yung Dah Firm, on Boulevard des deux Republiques.

The meeting yesterday also decided to establish a cheap sale depot at the Hunan Guild, Pont St. Catherine.

THEATER RAISES $18,000

The Tien Chuan Theater, Kiukiang and Hupeh Roads, succeeded in raising $18,000 to be contributed to the various exchanges by the three performances Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Local Chinese officials, prominent merchants, students of the Institute for Chinese Blind, and sing song girls helped in the entertainment.

POLICE REPORT

The Police Commissioner's report for May which appears in this morning's Municipal Gazette, regarding the strike situation, says: "Contrary to expectations, the month of May was remarkable for an absence of political agitation. Attempts to hold a monster demonstration on Labor Day, May 1 were unsuccessful as a result of precautionary measures taken by the Chinese and Settlement authorities. The anniversary, May 4, of the attack on the house of the alleged pro-Japanese official Tsao Jui-ling as well as "National Disgrace Day" May 9 passed off quietly, except that on the latter day shops dealing in school requisites were closed and several Chinese residents flew the national flag at half mast. The quietness experienced during May was doubtless due to the existence of martial law proclaimed on April 24 and still continued in a modified form. The closing on May 6 of the National Organisations' Union of China, No. 15-16 Yong Loh Lee, Rue Amiral Bayle, when deprived the agitators of their meeting places, also contributed to the general tranquillity.

RICE RIOTS

"Considerable discontent arose among the industrial classes during the month as a result of a 20 percent increase in the price of rice. No less than three strikes occurred. 200 tailors ceased work on May 16 but resumed on May 20 after being granted a 20 percent advance in wages. 200 girls employed in the knitting trade struck work on May 23 as a protest against a retention of a portion of their wages as "Guarantee Money" but the majority have since resumed. 80 Japanese shoemakers struck work for an increase of 30 percent on May 14, but the strikers, with a few exceptions, resumed unconditionally on May 22. Demands made by pigskin box makers, makers of soles for Chinese shoes, masons and carpenters for increase in wages were partially acceded to and strikes were thus avoided."

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

On the rice situation, he says in part:

"The present price of rice is complicating the local situation and gives cause for anxiety. The highest price reached was $10.20 and the lowest $9 per picul, that is to say $3 per picul over the normal price, and as long as the high prices of rice continues, further strikes among artisans and laborers and robbery amongst the rougher classes may be expected. It is to be hoped that every effort will be made to relieve the present somewhat critical situation and that any profiteering that may be discovered will be punished with a heavy hand."

LABOR SITUATION

In reviewing the local labor situation during May, the Acting Commissioner of Public Works said in part in today's Municipal Gazette the following:

The labor situation became acute during the month, and it was found necessary to suspend several public works. The nature of the work upon which the majority of the men are employed does not attract a very high type of laborer, and with the increased demand for all classes of labor in Shanghai, it is extremely difficult to obtain sufficient unskilled men physically able to do nine hours work a day, when the work is of a particularly arduous nature, such, for example, as sewer trench work. These remarks apply particularly to the central district, where work is for various reasons, extremely unpopular.

ON COPPER BASIS

All daily rates of pay are on a copper coinage basis. The debasement and depreciation of copper 10-cash pieces has doubtless inflicted some hardship on the men, nevertheless a comparison of the silver value of wages drawn in 1906 and 1918 when increased rates of pay were issued with the value today, rather points to the fact that for a poor class of laborer living a hand-to-mouth existence, payment in copper has its advantages, he has for one thing, no exchange losses to suffer.

The lowest daily rate is that paid to street sweepers, who in 1906 received 25 ten-cash pieces per day, then equal to about $7.83 per month. In 1918 the rate was increased to 28 ten-cash pieces per day, then equal to $6.74 per month. Under the increased rates authorised for June, he will receive 32 ten-cash pieces per day, which upon May 31, was equivalent to about $6.92 per month.

SUMMER SHORTAGE

There is invariably a shortage of available labor during the summer months, owing to an exodus to agricultural districts for better pay and more congenial work, and this exodus occurs when the demand for public works labor reaches a maximum. The high demand at this period is due to the commencement of works authorised by the passing of the municipal budget in April, and to various forms of asphalt work which cannot be carried out in cold weather.

It is confidently hoped that the revised rates of pay will bring about a material improvement, but whether the rates are sufficient to attract labor from distant centers is a point which will take some months to decide.

2,000 KILLED BY GAS EXPLOSION IN JAP MINES

The cause of the explosion was not given.

SCHOOL FOR BLIND GRADUATES CLASS

Instution Which Began Work For Sightless 7 Years Ago Expanding

The Institution for the Chinese Blind, which undertook the huge task of giving training to sightless Chinese just seven years ago, graduated its first class, a group of twelve pupils, at Martyrs' Memorial Hall yesterday. Mr. George B. Freyer is president of the institution which through the years steadily has been widening the scope of its effort.

Two of the graduates will enter the preparatory department of the St. John's University next fall, five, who have specialised in the trade department, will return to the Institution for further study in order that they may become teachers in the school, and five will go from the lower to the higher primary of the Institution.

At the commencement exercises today Mr. E. C. Pearce acted as chairman and the diplomas and prizes were presented by Mr. Yang Tchang.

is a popular way of describing anything which has proved to be of exceptional value, and may therefore be employed to describe that old and favourite preparation—Beecham's Pills. The ever-increasing army of men and women who have experience of this excellent medicine generally use some such phrase as "priceless" or "Worth a guinea a box" when speaking of Beecham's Pills. This is certainly high praise. But it is well-merited. Beecham's Pills have proved, times out of number, to be a "priceless" preparation in the treatment of digestive ailments. They bring relief; they safeguard the health; they effect remarkable cures. All who suffer in any way from biliousness, sick headache, constipation, impaired appetite, and the resulting loss of energy and want of tone should take

DYNAMITE USED TO FLOAT SHIP ASHORE ON ISLE

Pak Ling To Be Repaired By Local Builders And Put In Service

Rock near the shore of Button Island, the craggy islet some 60 miles south of Shanghai, was blown up with dynamite in order to make it possible to refloat the s.s. Pak Ling, the Blue Funnel freighter which arrived in port Monday according to stories brought here last night by witnesses.

In addition to having a new stem installed the vessel will require a large number of bottom plates as a result of the accident. Cause of the wreck of the steamer in what was reported to be fair weather has not yet been announced.

The cargo of the vessel had to be partially discharged in her fore hold before she was floated.

Three tugs, the St. Dominick, Captain Corneck, and said to be the best tug of her kind on the Coast, the Victoria, Captain Jensen, and the Vulcan, Captain Hudson, stood by.

The British tug St. Breock also helped and at 4 o'clock Sunday the ship was afloat. This was done after the vessel had been floated by means of a coffer dam which was constructed in the No. 1 hold.

Although she is out of commission as a result of the accident the Pak Ling is expected to be in service again within a short time. She will be repaired at the local shipyards.

NEW SHIP WILL BE INNOVATION THROUGH GORGES

Vessel Built At Kiangnan Shipyards To Start On Voyage Today

Tourist travel through the picturesque Gorges of the Yangtsze is to be revolutionised, it was revealed yesterday, when the new shallow-draft, high-powered steamer Loong Mow was put in commission here. The ship is to sail for the upper reaches of the river today with a full passenger list and hereafter will be kept on the Ichang-Chungking run during the season from April to October.

There has been only one other vessel navigating under steam through the Gorges, the Robert Dollar II, which has been handling freight as its chief object. The new vessel has been built with a view to special accommodation of passenger traffic.

BUILT FOR RUN

With a measurement of 202 feet over-all, the new ship was built for Mackenzie and Company, with a special view to voyages through the difficult gorges. The engineers of the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Company devoted close attention to the design and construction of the vessel and their efforts were fully appreciated by the crowd of guests who attended a pre-voyage reception aboard the vessel off the French Bund yesterday afternoon.

An interesting feature in connection with the new service is the story of the attack on the Robert Dollar II by bandits in the upper reaches of the river recently. The Mackenzie company announces it is fully prepared to insure the speedy transportation and safety of passengers.

Because of the difficulties of navigation in the gorges the Loong Mow has been equipped with engines twice the size required for a boat of her size in ordinary water and has a series of three rudders which assures wholly exceptional maneuvering power. She is a twin-screw vessel.

Cabin accommodations are of the highest order, berths and baths being of the most modern design. She will accommodate 18 first-class foreign passengers and has ample room for first, second and third class Chinese passengers.

PREPARE FOR TOURISTS

On the awning deck provision has been made to accommodate sight-seers who wish to view the beauties of the gorges.

There is a handsome saloon and the deck accommodation aft is exceptionally equipped for the comfort of the tourists. Owing to the obstacles of navigation in the gorges the ship will not attempt night journeys and it is anticipated that the time at anchor will be the period when the deck arrangement is particularly appreciated.

Lieut. Commander S. Hall, R. N. R., is to be skipper of the new ship. He will be aided by Mr. H. E. Higgs, late C. P. O. in the R. N., as Chief Officer, and Mr. W. L. P. Cook, late of the R. N., as Chief Engineer. All of these officers have war records and, in addition, are thoroughly experienced on the upper Yangtsze.

MONGOLS TURN ON LITTLE HSU

Attack Follows Attempt He Made To Impose Higher System Of Taxes

Over 200 bodyguards of Little Hsu and troops of the Border Defense Army were killed and 100 others were injured when the Anfu field marshal attempted to levy a system of taxation in Mongolia, say reports from Mongolia. All the military, commercial and government telegraphic wires between Kalgan and Urga have been cut and Little Hsu has taken refuge in Wuteh.

Encouraged by his recent successes in Mongolia where he exploited the Mongolian princes and nobles by means of armed threats, he gathered together all the princes late last week and showed them a plan for increasing the various taxes in the dependency. After a brief explanation, he asked them to sign the documents to show their approval. Hsu asked them to do so literally at the point of the bayonet.

Infuriated by the conduct of Hsu and resenting the already high rates of taxation now imposed on them, the princes declared war, issued a call to arms and advanced on Hsu's ever-victorious army. His bodyguards were completely routed and many casualties were suffered.

PERSIA PLEADS FOR INTERVENTION

League Council Hears Of Bolshevik Advance On Defenceless Nation

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 14.—It is understood that no unanimous decision was reached at today's meeting of the Council of the League of Nations with regard to Persia's protest against the Bolshevik invasion: With a view to effecting perfect concord between the representatives of Persia and the rest of the members of the Council it was agreed that a separate meeting should be held between the Persian and French representatives in the presence of Sir Eric Drummond, the Secretary General.

It is officially announced that a public meeting of the Council of the League of Nations will be held at Saint James' Palace on Wednesday morning. The subjects for discussion will be Persia and the repatriation of war prisoners in Siberia. The Persian Foreign Minister will, under the provisions of the Covenant, sit temporarily as a member of the Council.

SITUATION GRAVE

London, June 14.—The Persian Foreign Minister, Prince Firouz, interviewed by Reuter, said that the situation in Russia was very grave. The Soviet forces had made a further advance in the neighborhood of Resht and the Bolsheviks were organising a force in Turkestan to attack Persia and Afghanistan.

The Persian Government had hitherto refrained from opposing the advance with the object of avoiding bloodshed. Prince Firouz said that, in his opinion, a strong attitude towards Russia on the part of the Allies would save the situation without recourse to arms.

NO 'LUXURY BUILDINGS'

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 12.—Dr. Addison, the Minister of Health, in the course of an interview today, said that it was necessary to introduce another Housing Bill, empowering local authorities to take over unoccupied houses and enlarging the powers to prohibit "luxury buildings." He said that the number of housing schemes, submitted to the Ministry up to the present, exceeded 10,000, with a total of 300,000 houses.

Crown Prince Back From Nanking Trip; Silent As To China

Future Monarch Carefully Guarded As He Sees Famous City

Carol, Crown Prince of Rumania, returned to Shanghai last night after a brief visit to Nanking, where he took great interest in studying Chinese customs and modes of life, practically untainted by foreign influence. He went aboard the P. and O. steamer Madras thoroughly satisfied that he had seen the China of the Chinese, and will proceed to Japan on the vessel with new impressions of this part of the Orient.

Departing from Shanghai at 11 o'clock Tuesday evening, the Prince and his suite made the night journey to the interior city, spent some hours there and returned to the port at 11 o'clock last evening. The Shanghai Municipal Police detective department provided special protection for His Royal Highness during his stay in the Settlement, and other precautions were taken on the train and at Nanking.

All of which was apparently somewhat distasteful to the Prince, who is most democratic in his habits.

The trip was made without incident of note and the Prince, with characteristic reticence, refused, upon his return, to make a statement.

From China the Prince is to go to Japan and thence to the United States before returning to his native land.

AUSTRIAN AFFAIRS

Paris, June 15.—With regard to the Austrian political situation the prevailing opinion in Austria is that the present Cabinet should remain in power but should no longer hold to the coalition agreement which has been denounced.

The Chancellor, Dr. Renner, in the course of a speech today, disposed of the charge that Social Democracy desired the end of the coalition. He pointed out that the Christian Socialists by their agreement with Pan-Germanists had brought about the present Ministerial crisis.

The Chancellor assured Austrian workers that the Government did not aim at a dictatorship of the bourgeoisie.

"We will never submit," he said, "to a dictatorship of any other class over the proletariat. The Austrian working class will be able to defend its rights and maintain its share in the Government of our Republic."

British cavalry encountered three hundred raiders at Tauiyarah, killing 35, British armored cars killed others.

The British column has reached Telafar and is carrying out punitive operations.

CALLS FOR PARLEY

London, June 12.—The Paris correspondent of the Times draws attention to the Mosul dispute as typical of large numbers of questions, which are poisoning Anglo-French friendship, and says that the time has come for the drawing up of a list of such questions, a statement of the minimum demands of each country and an endeavor to reach a general agreement on the lines of the 1904 understanding, which was the basis of the Entente Cordiale.

FREDERICK LARGE NAMED DEFENDANT

Chinese Indigo Merchant Sues Firm For Alleged Breach Of Contract

The claim of Tls. 43,425.80 against Messrs. Frederick Large and Company, commission agents, by Messrs. Tsing Yue Dye Co. of Shanghai, dye merchants, for alleged breach of contract was heard yesterday in the British Supreme Court. The case will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock. Evidence for the plaintiffs was given during the morning and afternoon sessions yesterday.

The case was heard before Judge Skinner Turner. Mr. W. Strafford Levinson represented the plaintiffs while Mr. Reader Harris was counsel for the defence.

The petition of the plaintiffs alleges that a contract for 50 tons of "20 percent indigo paste" to be shipped by the defendants' agents in Marseilles and delivered in Shanghai to the plaintiffs was made in December. Later plaintiffs resold the goods to various other Chinese dealers. Defendants have failed to fulfil the contract, the petition alleges and have caused the plaintiffs damages to the extent of Tls. 43,425.80.

The witnesses called yesterday included the managing partner of the plaintiff firm and a number of dealers to whom the indigo is alleged to have been resold.

PLAINTIFF ON STAND

Sung Wen-ching, partner in and manager of the plaintiff firm said that, about December 7 or 8 last year, through Mr. Bernard of Frederick Large and Co., he signed a contract under which that firm engaged to ship him 50 tons of indigo paste from Marseilles at 84 gold cents per pound. The contract was subject to confirmation from New York and this subsequently arrived. Some days later, Mr Bernard told him he believed the goods had actually been shipped.

Witness was anxious to know this as he had to settle his exchange and witness resold some of the paste—200 piculs at Tls 127 per picul, 50 at Tls. 125, 100 at Tls. 123, 100 at Tls. 122 and 175 at Tls. 125.25. Failure to fulfil these contracts would involve him in financial liabilities.

At a later interview with Mr Bernard, he was told the goods might come any day, but as he was several times refused a clear answer, he turned the matter over to his solicitors. Under his five contracts he was liable to pay over Tls. 20,000 and, altogether, he had lost Tls. 43,000 or Tls. 44,000, owing to the market having gone up in price.

IS CROSS-EXAMINED

Cross-examined; plaintiff said that the paste was to be shipped in January and witness was told it took about 30 days for the goods to arrive. Mr. Bernard told him he had had an offer of the goods and asked if witness would take them over. Witness said that, if the paste came soon he would take it over; if not, he did not want it. Witness did not know whether boats could come from Marseilles in 30 days. He knew they were held up during the war, but this contract was signed after the war.

He could buy indigo easily in the local market, but he could not afford the difference. Further, if he had bought, the other men with whom he had contracts would have demanded immediate payment, but they delayed action when he took proceedings against Large and Co.

LIGHT INK USED

Mr. Reader Harriss put it to plaintiff that, in his sales book in every one of the five cases the entry of the contract being signed was in lighter ink and presumably written at a later date. Witness would not agree and said that patches of lighter writing were common with Chinese ink. It was usual to have contracts in his business. These were the only sales of indigo paste he made during that month.

A number of other witness were called during the afternoon and the case was adjourned till this morning.

Bread Shortage Not So Acute, He Says

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 12.—The agricultural correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that the forecasts of an European bread shortage in 1921 are not justified by facts.

He points out that recent reports from America and Canada are more encouraging than they were a month ago and he believes that exports from America in 1921 will equal those in recent years.

The writer states that the winter-sown crops in Great Britain, Austria, Belgium and Egypt are progressing and it is hoped that some Indian wheat will also be available.

London, June 13.—Speaking at Birmingham, Sir L. Worthington Evans said, regarding bread, that further control might be necessary.

Korean Propagandists

(China Press Correspondnt)

Chuchow, Anhwei Province, June 14.—A small party of Koreans who are visiting various centers in the lower Yangtsze Valley, in the interest of the Korean independence movement, spent a few days in this city addressing the schools. All of the party are Christians and their deep faith that the God of all men will answer their petitions for the freedom of their native land, is spurring them on in this campaign among the Chinese. They have already visited Hangchow, Tsung-ming, Chinkiang, Yangchow and other points.

These men are equipped with passports from the Korean Provisional Government, which has established itself in Shanghai. They have their president, vice-president and complete cabinet, all functioning. This party also displayed a number of complimentary testimonials from the schools and local associations in the Chinese cities which they have been visiting.

TO AROUSE SYMPATHY

Their avowed purpose is to arouse China to greater activity against their common political menace, the Japanese. To this end they recount the outrages which Japan has prepetrated in Korea—not in a vindictive spirit, but rather for the purpose of causing the Chinese to prevent similar deeds taking place in this country.

Since Japan has already seized portions of Chinese territory they urge that the former boycott methods be continued, and that every possible step be taken to prevent rice and similar foodstuffs being shipped from China to Japan.

STAYED FIVE DAYS

The Koreans spent five days addressing the government and mission schools and then gave a final address to the business men of the city. Although the major part of those who listened are non-Christian, the speakers throughout made prominent their faith that God would aid them in their movement. They were just as strong in confessing that the present conditions in Korea and China are due to the sins of the people themselves, as they were in impressing upon their audiences that, unless Japan changes her methods and gives back freedom to the nations she is oppressing, there will be no peace for the Orient.

Notes From Taichow

(China Press Correspondence)

Taichow, Ku., via Chinkiang, June 12.—On May 27 a very welcome couple was added to the foreign community in Taichow in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. G. Reiss who came on that date to make their home here. Mr. Reiss has been appointed foreign representative in the local office of the Salt Gabelle and will be here for some time. The adding of one family to this foreign community makes quite an increase, since there are only two other families here.

Mrs. Reiss has lived in Peking for twelve years and Mr. Reiss has been there for eight years, being for the whole of that time connected with the Russian legation. They were married in Peking on May 23 and left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip.

ENJOY VISITORS

Last week the mission station enjoyed a visit from several members of the Mid-China mission of the American Presbyterian Mission South—Dr. and Mrs. Worth, Mr. William Worth of Kiangyin and Dr. and Mrs. Crawford of Kashing.

With these visitors the total number of foreigners in Taichow, including the children, numbered nineteen the largest number of foreigners ever seen by the inhabitants of Taichow in their city at one time.

While here these two physicians gave us many valuable suggestions concerning the erection of our new hospital buildings, upon which we hope to start work in a few weeks. The medical missionary work in this city has been heavily handicapped for its whole existence by the lack of suitable quarters.

Some weeks ago, at the American consulate in Nanking, a consultation was held between representatives of the local gentry and some of the members of the station. After a long discussion of the case, in the presence of the American Consul, the Chinese Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and the Taichow Magistrate, an agreement was reached which we hope will put an end to all trouble between the foreign residents and the Chinese here and will promote the most friendly feelings in the future.

WHEAT CROP FINE

This year's wheat crop is one of the best this section has seen for several years and the weather during the harvest was exceptionally fine, so the whole population is most encouraged.

There was an uneasiness in some parts for the bean crop, on account of the continued dry weather; but this was relieved on the tenth by a good rain. The water in the canals, however, is very low and the launches are apt to have to stop running at any time.

Band Concert

The following program be played, weather permitting, by the band in the Public Garden today beginning at 5:30 p.m.:

March—En Avant ..... Audran
Overture—Jubilee ..... Flotow
Waltz—Priere ..... Genneux
Selection—Mefistofele ..... Boite
Adagio ..... Beethoven
Selection—L'Arlesienne (Suite No. 2) ..... Bizet

LLOYD GEORGE IS FIRM IN SADDLE

British Observer Feels He Is Only Alternative To A Labor Government

ASQUITH PARTY IS WEAK

Premier, Under Fire, Is Only Man Who Can Hold Coalition Together

London, May 8.—One of the best informed political observers in England writes for The New York Times:

"Casual observers, not accustomed to look beneath the surface of British political affairs, might very well come to the conclusion that the Government of Lloyd George is in a decidedly bad way. As a matter of fact, paradoxical though it may appear, many good judges are convinced that the coalition's political stock stands higher today than at any period since the general election.

"The foam and fret on the surface do not show the depth of the water beneath, and it is impossible to form a correct judgment of the political situation today without taking into account many considerations which, if not very obvious, are exercising very powerful influence.

"On the face of it Lloyd George's position has recently been pretty severely challenged. The Government has sustained a series of nasty shocks at the various bye-elections. The old fashioned Liberals, headed by Mr. Asquith, have captured the political machinery of the National Liberal Club and after a scene of rowdyism rare in British politics have driven the coalitionists with contumely from the meeting of the National Liberal Federation at Leamington. Inside the Liberal Party the rupture is now definite and complete.

"The Labor Party, that Ishmael of politics which refuses to take a share in the Government of the country because it cannot seize the whole, is in full cry after the Premier's scalp.

The Northcliffe vendetta continues. The Government is loudly cursed from one end of the country to the other for its failure to bring down high prices. There is an uneasy feeling that it has brought about a breach with France which may prove very difficult to heal. Finally, there is a strong suspicion that Lloyd George, the Liberal lamb, is more than likely to come to rest inside the Tory lion, or, to use a metaphor which has been common lately, that the Liberal Jonah will be assimilated by the Conservative whale.

"In ordinary times the ordinary man might well find it impossible to carry on under such a volume of destructive fire, but the times are not ordinary, and certainly that man does not merit the adjective. Lloyd George's entire political future depends upon the events of the next few months, and, whatever his merits or demerits may be he is a fighter who will neither ask nor give quarter.

Unmistakably he is either heading or being led by a tremendously powerful section of British public and political opinion.

"Is he leader or led?"

"By-elections are usually regarded as enormously important by the party that happens to win them. The Government has not done particularly well recently in these casual encounters, though the success of Sir Hamar Greenwood at Sunderland must have come as a very awkward reminder to the Liberal conference at Leamington. But if the Government has not been conspicuously successful what can be said of the Asquith Liberals? Even Runciman went down at Edinburgh, while at Sunderland the official Liberal candidate did so badly that he must forfeit the £150 deposited as a guarantee against frivolous candidature.

"There have been some striking labor gains, but the heavy defeat of labor in a working class constituency like Sunderland does not suggest the imminence of a labor Government.

"For immediate practical purposes the politics of labor and Asquith liberalism are unmistakably ruled out of the country, which will have neither. Labor today is, in the views of moderate people, making a bad showing. It is neither to hold nor to bind. Agreements are broken before the ink on them is dry, and a large body of middle class opinion, which a few months ago seemed to be swinging definitely toward labor, is now veering very perceptibly in the other directions. More than this, a very large percentage of the cooler headed labor men are frankly alarmed at the tactics of the hotheads as is shown by the miners' overwhelming defeat of the strike proposal.

"As for Asquith liberalism, if the by-elections have any shred of meaning, it has not a scintilla of hope. The coalition may be crumbling, though the fact is not very obvious, but what alternative is there?

"Here we have the real key to the problem. Lloyd George has plenty of enemies. He is anathema to the Liberals of the old-fashioned type. He is utterly distrusted by the Labor Party. The old-fashioned Tories have neither forgotten nor forgiven Limehouse and the campaign against the Dukes. None the less Lloyd George is continuing to lead by far the strongest section of the House of Commons and he will probably continue to do so just so long as he avoids a rupture with the forces represented by Bonar Law.

"For the moment, at least, Lloyd George's leadership is indispensable to the existence of the coalition, which without him could not live for a week. That he will ever become a conservative in the ordinary acceptance of the word is unthinkable. The country simply would not stand such political apostasy. He has no party, no funds, none of the established machinery of political organisation, but he happens to be indispensable to the party or agglomeration of parties which offers the only possible alternative to a labor Government, for which the country is not ready.

"Liberalism, as usually understood, could not form a Government today. Labor will have none of either party. The rest of the House and the rest of the country see in the coalition the only alternative to a labor Government, and it regards Lloyd George, probably quite correctly, as the only man capable of holding the coalition together. It may not love the coalition or Lloyd George, but it shows no signs of killing Lloyd George to set up a Labor Government."

Married Life

Some Of Us Are Married. By Mary Stewart Cutting. With frontispiece. Doubleday, Page and Co.

In this new volume Mary Stewart Cutting relates a number of those pleasant, semi-humorous little stories of married life with which her name is associated, as well as two others which she calls "Autobiographical Stories." And these two are, as a matter of fact, the best in the book, the least common-place, and the most interesting. The first, "The Man Who Went Under," is the tale of an embezzler, told by himself. Beginning with his childhood, the narrative shows well and clearly the development of that yellow streak which made him what he ultimately became. Especially good is the account of his church affiliations and their effect, or lack of effect, upon him. The second, "The Song of Courage," is a really admirable story of a woman who might have been a great singer, had not life thwarted her—life, and her own affections. Yet, thwarted and hampered though she was, in the end she achieved her ambition. And as she herself put it: "I stood with my feet in the fairy ring at last, in the consciousness of that fullness of created power. I stood in the fairy ring at last with my voice going up to God!"

Of the other tales, "At Lochinvar" is an amusing little story of the complications brought about by the coming of unexpected guests on an exceptionally hot day—an annoyance most housekeepers have experienced at one time or another. "Her Job," the tale of a wife and mother who took everything tensely, not to say tragically, has a moral many women would do well to heed, while the account of the dance given in "The Wonder-Worker" is amusing, as are also parts of "Leslie's Friend."

The people who appear in these tales are most of them agreeable everyday folk, living in the suburbs, living simple, everyday lives. Two of the stories are tales of the love which results in marriage, while one, "Child of the Heart," tells of a widowed mother who permitted her new-born baby to be adopted by some rich people, who were devoted to it and gave it the best of care. The mother, however, loved the child so much that she persuaded them to let her have it back again, to be brought up amid the direst poverty. "Some of Us Are Married" while as a whole not equal to Mrs. Cutting's best work, will no doubt give pleasure to many people.

THE ANCIENT ALLAN

The Ancient Allan. By H. Rider Haggard. New York: Longmans, Green and Co.

Here we have romance and adventure of the good, old-fashioned sort, mixed according to the recipe which for many years has been in the possession of Rider Haggard, and has seldom failed him. Fashions in fiction have gone through many changes since the days when "King Solomon's Mines" and "She" made their appearance, since the doughty Allan Quatermain first thrilled us with his exploits and amused us with his quaint philosophy, yet somehow the old ingredients seem to have lost little of their potency when mixed by the hand of Allan's creator. We are quite as willing as we ever were to hold our breath while the great huntsman Allan risks his life in countless adventures, to rejoice when another of those peerless paragons of beauty whom Rider Haggard so lavishly creates nestles in the arms of the hero as a reward for the perils which he has successfully braved.

This new Haggard book, like several of its predecessors, has as its hero the mighty Allan Quatermain, he of the innumerable hair-breadth escapes, ever since, many years ago, he ventured into the secret city of Loo and found the fabulous treasures of King Solomon.

But now we have an Allan of thousands of years ago, for Mr. Haggard dabbles with the theory of the transmigration of souls and shows us the mighty Egyptian huntsman and General Shabaka, to whom Allan reverts as a result of smoking, together with a noble English lady, a certain magic weed, which enables those who taste it to live again their previous lives on earth.

As Shabaka Allan has adventures quite worthy of the Allan of King Solomon's Mines. He journeys far to the east of Egypt into the domain of the "King of Kings," who behaves most disagreeably to him and almost compasses his death. But Shabaka emerges triumphant from the hands of his would-be executioners, makes his way back to Egypt and there persuades the Egyptian King, who is a vassal of the other cruel monarch, to revolt against the tyranny of the latter. Shabaka becomes a General and wins a victory over one of the satraps of the King of Kings. Then, however, he gets into trouble; the lady of his heart refuses to marry him and declares her intention of devoting her life to the worship of the goddess Isis. Shabaka, in despair, shakes the dust of Egypt from his feet and hies him to Ethiopia, with a dwarf who has been his slave but is in reality the rightful King of Ethiopia. The dwarf is received by the Ethiopians as their ruler and Allan resides in high favor at the Ethiopian court until he gets a letter from his lady love, announcing that Egypt is threatened by the armies of the King of Kings and imploring help from Shabaka and his friends, the Ethopians. Shabaka and the dwarf King answer the summons with martial enthusiasm, march to Egypt with all the armed forces of Ethopia, and, after a tremendous battle, completely vanquish the great army of the wicked King of Kings. The latter perishes at the hands of Shabaka, who tells him what he thinks of him before stabbing him to death. Then the lovely lady of the victor's dreams bestows upon him her hand and the mighty chieftain Shabaka finds himself at the goal of all his desires.

At this point Allan Quatermain suddenly awakes to find himself back in the present day. Resting on his shoulder is the head of the lady with whom he has smoked the magic weed. When the two recover their dazed senses they compare notes and it turns out that the lady, under the influence of the weed, has been dreaming that she was Shabaka's lady love and had just promised him her hand. The book closes here, with "sequel coming" writ large between the lines.

IN AN EARLIER INCARNATION

This new chronicle of the Allan Quatermain of a previous incarnation is chockful of excitement. There are fights with lions and a crocodile, duels to the death, the clash of mighty hosts in battle. There is a signet ring whose bearer commands unquestioning obedience from those who behold it, an attribute which the Allan of bygone centuries finds most useful when his faithful dwarf purloins it from its possessor, the villainous King of Kings. There is a white-bearded soothsayer, who keeps dropping in and making solemn prophecies of a brilliant future for the great Captain Shabaka. There are hunters and soldiers, cringing courtiers and solemn priests, warriors and slaves, and the waters of the ancient Nile murmuring through the breathless narrative.

The tale is told swiftly and simply, as all good Rider Haggard tales are told. It moves so naturally that one overlooks the unreality. "The Ancient Allan" is by no means to be named in the same breath with "King Solomon's Mines" and other earlier creations of its indefatigable author. But it will not disappoint the reader who wants thrills without analysing too closely the methods employed to provide them for him.

HALF HIS LIFE IN LABRADOR

So It Stands To Date, With Dr. Grenfell, Who Writes His Whole Story

Dr. Wilfred Thomason Grenfell was fifty-four years old on the 28th of last February. He has spent twenty-seven years as a medical missionary among the fisherfolk of Labrador. A land barren of many things has yielded world fame to him and his work. In a volume of autobiography, "A Labrador Doctor" (Houghton-Mifflin Co.), he has just told to the world the whole story of his life.

Born near Chester, on the Irish Sea, our autobiographer, son of a school-master and proprietor in Cheshire, saw before him as a youth prospects of a course at Oxford and a career in scholarship. His plans were changed when his father gave up keeping school to become chaplain to a London hospital. He might still have gone to Oxford. Instead he took to London and the study of medicine. The lure of Labrador came upon him in August, 1892, when the ship upon which he was sailing as one of a party of inquiry as to the Labrador field of work made the far northern coast. In his book he describes out of a full memory the beauties of sun, land and sea at that hour of destiny.

Dr. Grenfell's book is rich in its descriptions of people and the out-of-doors; in its chapters of experience and peril; in the personal interest inevitably attaching to the man who has found so real and persistent a fascination in what to most of us, probably, would be considered the life of an out-of-the-way land, to be entered upon only at the stern call of duty.

In the case of our doctor, however, we find reasons partially explaining his content with the scene of his life work. Writing of his boyhood days and ways, he says:

"Every inch of the Sands of Dee was dear to me. I learned to know their every bank and gutter. Away beyond them there was a mystery in the blue hills of the Welsh shore, only cut off from us children in reality by the narrow, rapid water of the channel we called the Deep. Yet they seemed so high and so far away.

"The fascination of the Sands was greatly enhanced by the numerous birds which at all times frequented them in search of the abundant food which lay buried along the edges of the muddy gutters. . . . From daylight to dark I would wander, quite alone, over endless miles, entirely satisfied to come back with a single bird, and not in the least disheartened if I got none.

"All sense of time used to be lost, and often enough the sandwich and biscuit for lunch forgotten, so that I would be forced occasionally to resort to a solitary public house near a colliery on our side of the water for 'tea biscuits.'"

This absorption in the Sands of Dee one perceives as the logical leader to a later surrender to the far stretches of Labrador.

GERMS RENDERED HARMLESS

The Modern Method of Fighting Malaria.

Every day many germs of disease enter our bodies, but they are made harmless and passed off if the fighting forces of the body are in good condition. Rich red blood is the power that keeps the human body in order.

When the blood is pure and good malarial germs cannot gain a grip in the system. If malaria is present the only way to permanently expel it from the system is by building up the blood, thus restoring to it the power to throw the malarial parasites out.

It is because they do exactly this—purify the blood, strengthen the blood, make new rich, red blood at every dose—that Dr. Williams' pink pills are famed as a remedy in all countries where malaria exists.

Dr. Williams' pink pills build up the blood, enable it to absorb more oxygen, the agent which burns up the body poisons. In this way they are not only a tonic but a specific for the host of diseases that come as a result of thin blood, and that can get a foot-hold only when the tone of the body is low.

Try Dr. Williams' pink pills for malaria, anæmia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, sciatica. Build up your blood and note how the purer and richer blood fights your battle against the disease. Take Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition, and cultivate a resistance that, with the observance of ordinary rules of health, will keep you well and strong.

You can obtain Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people from all druggists, or post free, one bottle for $1.50 six for $8.00, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai. The best time to begin is now.

Karan Rubber Estate Co., Ltd.

General meeting of the Karan Rubber Estate Company, Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon at 2 Kiukiang Road. The Chairman said:

"Gentlemen: The Report and Accounts having been in your hands for some days, I will, with your permission, take them as read.

"I think shareholders will agree that in spite of the high price of silver prevailing throughout the whole year, which affected our Tael earnings considerably, the result of the year's working is not altogether unsatisfactory. Last year we had an average exchange of Tls. 47⅝=S. $100 while we have been working at an average exchange of Tls. 36=S. $100 for the year under review. Rubber in Stock and in Transit has been calculated at Tls. 30½=S. $100.

"The Accounts, I think, need very little comment. The profit for the year amounted to Tls. 10,191.71 which, added to the amount of Tls. 3,299.40 brought forward from last year, leaves a balance of Tls. 13,491.11 available for distribution and in dealing with this amount, I will later propose that a Dividend of Fifty Tael Cents per share be paid, and the amount of Tls. 374.78 be written off Estate Development Account. This will involve a sum of Tls. 12,874.78, leaving a balance of Tls. 616.33 to be carried forward to next year's Accounts.

INVESTMENT ACCOUNT

"With regard to the Investment Account in the F. M. S. War Loan, the amount of Tls. 20,475 is the same figure as shown in last year's Accounts. Hitherto it has been the custom to incorporate the Investment Account in our Accounts at the rate of exchange prevailing on the last day of the Financial Year; loss on Exchange being debited to Profit and Loss Account. The Directors consider that this is hardly a fair charge on the working of the Estates and, with the consent of the Auditors, it was decided that the book value should remain the same as last year. The Tael value of the Investment Account on March 31, 1920, was Tls. 12,810 but owing to the drop in the price of silver the Tael equivalent of this Investment taken at today's rate of exchange is Tls. 21,000.00.

SELLING PRICE

"The average selling price of our crop for the year was 1s. 10d. against 1s. 2¾d. for the previous period and the total amount of sales realised Tls. 40,331.90, being an increase of Tls. 13,435.97 on the previous year's figures.

"The working of the Estate calls for very little comment. The Cost of Production shows a fractional increase but this, of course, owing to the enhanced prices of Estate supplies generally, is to be expected. The condition of the Estate can be considered highly satisfactory and diseases and pests gave very little trouble.

"Before concluding, I would like to take this opportunity of expressing the Directors' appreciation of the good services of Mr. Hutchison and the Estate Staff and of those of Mr. Kennedy the Visiting Agent, and Messrs. Kennedy and Co., the Local Agents in Penang.

"I will now propose the First Resolution "That the Report and Accounts for the year ended March 31, 1920 as printed and circulated be passed," this is seconded by Mr. Parsons, but before putting the Resolution to the Meeting, I shall be pleased to answer any questions shareholders may wish to ask."

The resolution was adopted, as also were the following:

"That the balance at credit of profit and loss account be disposed of as follows: Dividend, Tls. 0.50—Tls. 12,500; write off estate development, Tls. 374.78; carry forward to next year's account, Tls. 616.33; total Tls. 13,491.11."

"That Mr. E. E. Parsons be re-elected a director."

"That Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson be re-elected auditors."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D.,
Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PEELER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

D'ANNUNZIO TO BLOW UP FIUME

Poet, In An Interview, Says He Will Blow Himself Up, Too, Rather Than Quit

A 'SYMBOL OF PROTEST'

All The Oppressed Of The World Depending On Him, He Says

BY EDWIN L. JAMES
(New York Sun)

Paris, May 8.—Interviewed upon the possible outcome of the negotiations between the Italian and Jugo-Slav Governments, d'Annunzio declares that, sooner than quit Fiume, he will blow himself up. But, more serious than that, the poet adventurer threatens to blow up Fiume when he dynamites himself. But d'Annunzio does not think it will be necessary to blow himself to pieces. He holds that he is more powerful than the Allies. M. Barres of the Echo de Paris tells how he found the poet ruling elaborately from his ducal palace, and asked him if it was true, as many Italians said, that he would soon go away from Fiume and that the Fiumians would bid him godspeed.

"Listen to me," was the answer. "I will not give way. I will never give way. Sooner than hand over Fiume, I will blow up the bridges, I will blow up the railroad station, I will blow up the city. I will blow up myself.

"I have not the right to give way. For Fiume counts upon me, for Italy counts upon me, for all the oppressed nations count upon me. I am the symbol of protest against the iniquity of the Treaty of Versailles."

Of course, the Treaty of Versailles has nothing at all to do with Fiume. But let d'Annunzio continue:

"You have seen this people. You see they are Italian to the marrow. They wish to be united to Italy. They wish it with all their power. They have suffered, they suffer each day from the blockade. Stoically they accept their suffering. Italy or death! And will you say that before such a spectacle the Allies will dare refuse them the right to be Italian?

"What I reproach the Allies with is to have ended the war too soon and to have made peace too late. That was the reason. It was treason to have signed the armistice of November 11. It was at Berlin the armistice should have been signed and the peace quickly made.

"But as for Fiume, we have acted and before our act the Allies cannot speak. Rest assured they will do nothing, they will say nothing. Here at Fiume we are stronger than the Allies. Look you, a little band of men because they are in the right can hold in suspense the whole world. You think it droll. Well, it is not."

Trieste, May 8.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio today captured the Italian steamship Baro Fejervary, bound from Trieste to Catania with a cargo of grain. The poet despatched two anti-submarine craft to make the capture, which occurred in Quarnero Bay. The captain of the ship was ordered to proceed to Fiume.

Rome, May 7.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio was a passenger in an airplane which flew from Fiume to Ancona and scattered manifestoes over the latter city today, according to advices received here. The machine returned to Fiume without landing.

The Baro Fejervary is a steamer of 3,890 tons gross, built in England in 1902 and owned in Fiume. Fiume has been under strict blockade for a fortnight, according to recent advices, which reported that the Italian authorities had placed a cordon around the city, guarding the approaches by land and water, to prevent supplies reaching the insurgents under d'Annunzio.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending Wednesday, June 16:

Exchange:—The London price of silver has ruled rather unsteady during the week and after touching 51¼d. on the 12th inst. is down to 44¼ i.e. 4½d. lower than last week. The rise was probably due to buying by China against speculative re-sales of T.T. on London and a following of Export paper. Advices of silver still appear weak and New York is down to 82 with the cross rate at 3.95. There has been an attempt by the Gold Dealers to strengthen our Exchange Market by heavy re-sales of T.T. on London followed by profit taking in other directions and a fair offering of Export Bills, but unless there is an improvement in general Export business it is doubtful whether the two first mentioned factors can hold our Exchange Market, in view of the weakness reported in silver. The market closed strong principally on account of the operations of the Gold Dealers.

Stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 36,100,000 a fall of Tls. 1,900,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $18,680,000 a rise of $580,000.

United States Silver Dollars $1,000,000 unchanged.

Estimated value in Taels 50,600,000 a fall of Tls. 1,600,000.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth
In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.
Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.
The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—
(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

MARRIAGE

PANFILI-DENEGRI: On the 16th June at St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. Father Crochet, Bruno Panfili, only son of the late Edouard Panfili of Trieste, Italy, Lieutenant R. Flying Corps, to Luigia, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Denegri of Shanghai.

American Political Possibilities

ANALYSIS of the Literary Digest's national poll of American voters at the end of the fifth week of its operation shows that Senator Warren G. Harding, who has now been nominated by the Republicans, was running a bad sixth. Gen. Leonard Wood had received 202,000 votes, Senator Johnson 187,000, Herbert Hoover, 169,000, Gov. Lowden, 95,000, Charles E. Hughes, 40,000 and Senator Harding 31,000.

With a united party behind him, this failure to lead all the Republican candidates in this notable straw vote would make no appreciable difference in his running qualities, once he had won the nomination. But that is precisely the question which the Republican managers who were responsible for Harding's nomination will now have to face. Are his achievements and personal magnetism such as to warrant belief that he will be able to unite the warring elements in the Republican Party, especially in view of the radical platform declarations against the League of Nations and the Treaty of Peace?

Can Harding accomplish what Roosevelt, Hughes, Taft and Johnson have failed to accomplish in recent years? At least half of the Republican party is made up of Progressives who would have been willing to follow Johnson, Wood or Hoover. Will they follow Harding? The answer to that depends a good deal on what the Democrats are able to do at San Francisco where they hold their national convention towards the end of this month.

Another question: Would Roosevelt, if he were alive today accept the newly adopted Republican platform? We doubt it. While the platform as a whole undoubtedly is Progressive, Roosevelt would have fought for the League Covenant and the Treaty, with the reservations as proposed by Senator Lodge.

Summing up, therefore, the outlook is that neither the Republican candidate nor the Republican platform will prove to be acceptable to the average run of Republican voters. At least four Republican candidates would have made a much stronger appeal, not only to Republicans but to Democrats and a platform favoring the League of Nations with the Lodge reservations would have struck fire where the proposed International Court of Justice will leave most students of the question cold.

Democratic poll therefore takes on a new and important interest. Democrats were showing little enthusiasm for their own candidates. The break in the President's health and complete cessation of his campaign for the League and the Treaty as they stood left the Democrats doubtful and discouraged. Their leader had collapsed at a critical moment and the Republicans had taken every advantage of that fact.

Furthermore the long and bitter debate in the Senate had resulted in a division among the Democratic leaders both in and out of the Senate. It is noteworthy that in the poll we are discussing, 148,000 Democrats who were heard from cast their ballots for the Republican candidates while only 197,000 Democrats voted for Democratic candidates. Thus while Wood the leading Republican candidate had 202,000 votes, William G McAdoo, the leading Democratic candidate had only 64,000, and Wilson, the second Democrat received but 45,000, Gov. Edwards of New Jersey, who is against prohibition, had the same number, Bryan 31,000 and Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio was fifth with 23,500. It is worth noting that Cox, making no campaign at all, and at a time when the average Democrat was picking a Republican to vote for, got almost as many Democratic votes as Harding the Republican nominee received of Republican votes.

Another remarkable thing is that of Hoover's total of 169,000 votes, no less than 67,000 were cast by Democrats—more than were cast for McAdoo, the leading Democratic candidate. On the other hand out of the 64,000 cast for McAdoo, only 3,000 were Republican. Again, only 2,800 Democrats voted for Harding.

It is clear from these figures that the Democrats are not all dead. They merely have been voting for their favorite Republicans because, while the Democrats seemed divided and without a clear policy, the Republicans aside from Johnson, offered a definite plan for dealing with the League and the Treaty. In other words, Wood, Lowden and Hoover favored the League and the Treaty with the Lodge reservations.

Meantime the split in the Democratic Party widened. The opposing factions are now led by Wilson and Bryan. Wilson demands ratification of the League and Treaty as they stand and without any reservation whatsoever. Bryan favors ratification with reservations, and it is notable in this connection that running on this platform in the Nebraska Democratic primaries for Delegate-at Large, Bryan was returned the winner. He is now more than ever convinced that he is right in declaring that the people want the League and the Treaty but that they also desire to have American principles and traditions safeguarded by the reservations proposed by Lodge.

The result at Chicago thus has produced the following position: If the Democrats adopt the Wilson platform, neither of the great parties will be offering what a very large porportion of the voters want, that is the League, the Treaty and the reservations. The Republicans have abandoned all three, if Reuter's is correct, and the Democrats will have knocked out the reservations.

On the whole we are inclined to think the Democrats will follow Bryan on this question rather than Wilson. Bryan's position is that he sees no hope for the League and the Treaty unless the reservations are approved. He must be equally convinced, now that the Republicans have abandoned the reservations and turned against both the League and the Treaty, that certain success lies ahead for the Democrats if they will but father the reservations. His plea no doubt will be that the Democrats are thus given the chance to save the League and the Treaty from certain defeat, and that Europe already has signified its willingness to accept certain reservations and to recognise the special position of the United States.

If Bryan can carry the convention along these lines, and avoid a split, the Democratic forces will have what would seem to be better than an even chance of victory, whereas two weeks ago they seemed not to have a chance.

Europe Curbing Trade

Seven Distinct Groups Of Restrictions To Counteract Movement Of Imports

(New York Times)

A resume of the trade restrictions that are now in force in European countries has been prepared for the guidance of business men by G. F. Bauer, tariff and statistical expert of the New York office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. In a note attached to the survey, Ansel R. Clark, manager of the local office of the bureau, says that there has been far too much blind criticism of the regulations imposed by practically all European nations, particularly since the signing of the armistice, and too little real information as to the whys and wherefores of such regulations. In a majority of cases the establishment or removal of trade restrictions, according to findings of the Government commerce experts, has been dictated by the internal welfare of the countries considered.

The European nations, it is pointed out, have resorted to various systems of trade restrictions in order to counteract a tendency, which has been ruinous to them, of importing far in excess of exporting. The present adverse rates of exchange are a result of the excessive demands made by these foreigners on the markets of the United States. The legislation through which they have been, and are still, seeking to overcome this situation may be divided into seven distinct groups, according to the investigators of the bureau.

"In the first group," says Mr. Bauer, "are included such laws as provide for a complete control of all imports. For instance, no imports into Austria from countries not included in the former Austro-Hungarian Monarchy are permitted except under license. Application for such a license must be made to the Ministry of Finance at Vienna. The granting of it is dependent on this official, who must be satisfied that the goods are actually required and not superfluous luxuries, and also that the importer is a regular merchant who will sell the goods at reasonable prices and see that they are not acquired by speculators.

"The Devinza Tzentrale of the Bulgarian National Bank is authorised to grant or withhold licenses according to the importance of the goods from the point of view of national economy. Thus at the present time, Austria and Bulgaria are the two European countries which have a complete control of all imports."

In the second group, representing most of the European countries, are included those that have provided for partial control of certain imports only. This is characteristic especially of those countries which have revised their custom tariffs to meet the changed conditions.

REVISE CUSTOMS TARIFFS

"For that reason," says Mr. Bauer, France and Czecho-Slovakia have a partial control of imports only. Italy is also revising its customs tariff and it is simultaneously reducing the number of restricted imports. In Portugal, the import restrictions are applicable to ninety-five commodities only. On November 14 the Polish Government published a long list of articles that might be imported into Poland without special license, so that at the present time a permit is only required in cases where it is desired to import an article of a luxurious character.

"In Esthonia and Rumania there is a tendency to permit the importation of all necessaries, including manufactured wares, and to prohibit entirely imports of luxuries. In Germany, however, raw materials and certain food products are the only articles included in the free lists for which no special license is required, while the imports of manufactured wares are generally restricted.

"The United Kingdom originally proposed to restrict the importation of commodities that might be considered as products of the key industries, among which were included the manufacture of magnets and optical instruments. The British courts, however, ruled illegal such import restrictions, and since December 20 no special license is required in order to import into England any commodity whatsoever," including the products of the unstable industries.

"In Belgium, import licenses have been dispensed with, except in cases of certain German products that might offer severe competition to such Belgian industries as have not fully recovered from the effects of the war. In Switzerland the importation of coal is subject to control by the Société Co-operative Suisse des Chardons, which has its headquarters at Basle."

In the third group, Mr. Bauer says, there are included those countries which have not enacted legislation but rather have entered into agreements for the purpose of voluntary control of imports, and this is true of the Scandinavian countries.

In the fourth group restrictions are placed not only on the imports but on the exchange required in payment for such imports. In Austria, the Devisen Zentrale must approve of the term of payment and six months' credit or payment in installments of three, six, nine or twelve months usually is insisted on, except in the case of urgently needed foodstuffs for the payment of which foreign exchange may be procured from the Devisen Zentrale.

The value of all goods imported into Bulgaria must be deposited within a period of from one to two months with the Bulgarian National Bank in the name of the exporter or consignor, and from the date of importation this money is sequestered for a period of from ten to twelve months, with the deposit which may yield 5½ percent, if converted into treasury bonds.

GREECE REQUIRES DEPOSITS

In Greece the Ministry of Finance requires all importers to make a deposit of 20 percent with local banks when placing an order outside that country. Failure to make the deposit prevents the bank from remitting abroad, and this practically abolishes open credit and consignment dealings.

In Czecho-Slovagia the Devisen Zentrale fixes the rate of exchange and also controls credits in foreign countries. Due to the exchange situation the Italian Ministry of the Treasury has suspended stock exchange dealings in foreign exchange, while the United Kingdom, France and Germany still exercise direct control over a medium of exchange that is most suitable for the payment of imports. The restrictions already referred to, Mr. Bauer points out, cover imports, but similar laws are being enacted for the control of exports. So far Czecho-Slovakia and Esthonia are the only European countries that have taken drastic steps for the control of all exports, and their action of comparatively recent date. They represent the fifth group.

Limited control of exports is representative of the sixth group, and the German Government, although provisionally controlling all exports, has shown a marked tendency to establish a free list of articles that may be exported without license. This modified form of export control had been adopted by France, Italy and Belgium. The Austrian Government at present is preparing a list of articles that may not be exported except under license, and probably will make an exception to manufactured articles of luxury. Poland is permitting the export of commodities of which she has no need or of which there is a surplus. Great Britain still maintains control of certain exports, and Spain maintains a limited export control, over foodstuffs principally, while Sweden and Norway have restrictions against the exportation of grain and dried calfskins.

In the seventh and final group are included those countries which have enacted laws for the control of exchange required in export transactions. Esthonia requires that all foreign currency received in payment for exports must be collected by the Esthonian Bank, and this money is held under Government control for the use of importers. In Austria, the Devisen Zentrale must approve of the exportation of Austrian products whether they are subject to license or not.

"In Germany," says Mr. Bauer, "the importation of currency received in payment for exports must be effected through the banks. Transfers for one concern, amounting to 1,000 marks a day, or 30,000 marks a month, need not pass through these institutions. The Italian Government was for a while trying to overcome its post-war difficulties by requiring that drafts, payable in dollars, accompany shipping documents as a condition for the release of exports to the United States."

Marvelous Radium.

The potential energy of one gram of radium is sufficient to raise the temperature of a ton of water from the freezing to the boiling point. Then what could be done with a ton of radium?

It seems almost useless to consider such a question, since there is not a pound of radium in the world, and probably will not be during the lifetime of even the youngest member of this generation; yet, like the miracle of the transmutation of metals or the discovery of perpetual motion, this is a question which scientists have found so fascinating that many have speculated upon it. The late Sir William Ramsay, a winner of the Nobel Prize and acknowledged dean of British science, estimated that the energy in a ton of radium, if it could be harnessed to human uses, would propel a ship of 15,000 tons with engines of 15,000 horse power at a speed of fifteen knots an hour continuously for thirty years. It now requires a million and a half tons of coal to accomplish the same result. This is roughly the estimated proportion between the potential energy of radium and that of the most common source of energy now in human use.

Before the war almost all the radium in the world was obtained from pitchblende deposits in Austria. In fact, it was the gift of a ton of pitchblende by the Emperor of Austria to the renowned Mme. Marja Curie—this was in the days long before the war—that made it possible for the Polish woman scientist to isolate radium and study its properties.

The present price of radium is $3,260,000 per ounce, as contrasted with $150 per ounce for platinum, the next most precious element. It is indicative not only of the rarity of radium, but of the difficulty with which that radium is obtained. The ore must be packed fifteen miles on the backs of burros, then transferred to wagons and hauled by teams and trucks to the nearest railroad junction. It is there loaded on the cars of a narrow-gauge railway. Thence again the ore is transferred to a broad-gauge railroad for the final haul to the refining mills. One ton of ore requires to be treated with a ton of chemicals and thirty tons of water before it is finally compelled to yield four milligrams of radium, a quantity less by far than

Two 'New Poets' And The War

BY JOHN DRINKWATER

Picture Show. By Siegfried Sassoon. E. P. Dutton & Co.

Poems. By Cecil Roberts. With a Preface by John Masefield. Fredrick A. Stokes & Co.

There is an element, and, on the face of it, a very important one, in Mr. Sassoon's poetry, to which critical approach is of extreme difficulty. Rightly understood, it is the expressive part of poetry rather than the thing expresed that stimulates our mind, quickening our own perceptive faculty. Blake's sublime naturalism, Marvell's lucid intellectual passion, the romance of Morris, Crabbe's austerity—the mood of one stands with another in value to us by reason of its mastery in expression—that is, if we care for poetry and life more than we do for points of view. But this acceptance by the alert reader of the poet's experience for its own sake presupposes that such experience is in character not outside normal imaginative range, that the emotion of which the poet tells us and the circumstance in which he clothes it, although we may have no direct personal knowledge of them, are at least potentially within the scheme of our own nature as we know it. It is this condition that makes work of the fancy, in which a life of mere whim moves in no relation to universal experience, commonly so dull. Caprice always blurs the fine edge of creation. The poet whose world is a very private one, fancied rather than imagined, is likely to occupy it alone. Mr. Sassoon has a rich imagination. His work moves in essential touch with the life of a courageous and workaday world, and is bright with the poet's concentrated use of words. But a great deal of his verse, including much of his new book, is concerned explicitly with an experience which is not universal. It is not of the generalised emotion of war that he writes, but of his particular and individual reaction to the days that he spent as a soldier in the British Army in France, when he lived in a state of society where nearly every normal condition was reversed, and where the words law and license lost their habitual meaning altogether.

MR. SASSOON'S EXPERIENCES

It is upon that aspect of these poems that I feel it is impossible, for me at least, to speak, and I venture to think that no one is truly qualified to speak of it who has not shared Mr. Sassoon's experience. Of that generalised significance of war of which I speak it is possible to have imaginative as apart from direct knowledge, and many poets in the history of literature have shown this. And in the long run, when perspectives adjust themselves, this may conceivably be the profounder significance. But I think that we deceive ourselves entirely if we suppose that we can in the same way share the mood of which Mr. Sassoon writes so often. Bluntly, either we faced death in the trenches with him or we didn't. There may be perfectly good reasons for the fact if we didn't, but in that case it is none the less cant if we talk as though we knew all about it. Mr. Sassoon was distinguished as a soldier—no one could speak to him for a minute without seeing that. He came to loathe the whole business, not with reservations, but from every approach. He had the high moral courage to say so, and one cannot but respect that new and admirable gallantry. But for the most part I find the verse that came out of it all a little remote from my own imaginative experience. While I love the gallantry, as an outsider, I feel that it would be as impertinent of me to praise this poetry because of its mood, as is done rather freely by people whom I cannot but suspect of knowing as little about it as I do, as it would be a shameless insolence to censure it on the same grounds, which has also been done from vantages of cozy belligerence. If Mr. Sassoon's war verses of revolt are to be disputed, let it be by some Charles Peguy or Julian Grenfell; if eulogised, then by his fellows who lived through like endurances to a like disillusionment. We have no standing as controversialists in these things, and controversy by wrong standards is apt to beset Mr. Sassoon's work at present. This is poor homage to a poet. If there is any trying on the controversial issue to be done, Mr. Sassoon can be tried only by his peers of battle. And in the long run this, in any case, is not even a very important question in his character as a poet.

CRITICAL EXCURSIONS

Apart from war verses of the kind of which I have been speaking, there is enough work in this book to give a pretty clear indication of what Mr. Sassoon's gifts really are and of the way in which they are developing. And now for a little skirmishing of our own, over country that we do know. Mr. Sassoon has more than once been tempted into critical excursions in which he has made it clear that he thinks a good many of his contemporaries (e. g., might we say, the majority of his fellows in "Georgian Poetry"?) to be indifferently small, not to say quite little apples. In this I have of him the happy advantage of admiring most of them, many of them immensely, including Mr. Sassoon himself. I think "Georgian Poetry" misses some poets with good claims to inclusion, but I am clear that the generation that [illegible]

Today :-: By Arthur Brisbane

Herbert Spencer, English philosopher and teacher, was born April 27, 100 years ago. Read some paragraphs on his book, Education.

Spencer was self-taught, that made him think about education. He was a railway engineer at seventeen. After thirty he began writing seriously, and spent his life Thinking seriously.

When he was forty he announced the outline of "The Synthetic Philosophy," in ten volumes. He was not a careless worker. He finished the book thirty-six years later, and seven years after that he died.

To say "Think your way through All of Spencer," would be like saying, "Oblige me by drinking up Lake Michigan." Everybody will accept a little of Spencer from his book on education.

Two books on education every father and mother should read, Spencer's, and Rousseau's Emile. Froebel, the German, and Pestalozzi, the Swiss, may also be read. Spencer and Rousseau you must read.

Spencer divides his book into four chapters:

"What knowledge is of most worth."

"Intellectual Education."

"Moral Education."

"Physical Education."

We intellectual savages acquire mental clothing or education as the wilder, jungle savages acquire bodily clothing, more for show than real use.

Humboldt's Indian on the bank of the Orinoco cared nothing for personal comfort, but would work fourteen days to get money to buy paint, then smear himself and be admired.

And his wife, "who would not hestiate to leave her hut without a fragment of clothing on, would not dare to commit such a breach of decorum as to go out unpainted."

All travelers tell you that colored beads are more prized by wild tribes than substantial cloth. Captain Speke tells of African attendants "who strutted about in goatskin mantles when the weather was fine, when it rained took them off, folded them up and went around naked, shivering in the rain."

First among savages came decoration to gain admiration; clothing for comfort followed.

First among us intellectual savages comes mental ornamentation, something that will enable us to show how much we know.

Knowledge for real use is to come later.

In at least ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, we want to be educated for the sake of admiration. The Englishman sends his boy to Oxford to learn Greek and Latin, not that he will use them, but that he may have "the education of a gentleman."

The farmer in the country teaches his little girl to play the piano, not that she will ever be musician, but that she may show off by pounding out "The Maiden's Prayer" while neighbors say, "She ought to go to Paris to study."

Not what we are, but what we can make people think we are, is the uppermost thought shown in the way we dress our women, as in the way we dress our minds.

We are ignorant, glib, ready, loquacious and take a good deal of trouble to get the mental paint to decorate ourselves. There, as a rule, education ends.

Francis Bacon said every man must determine "the relative values of knowledge." There are many kinds of knowledge—which are worth while?

Spencer says, "To prepare us for complete living is the function which education has to discharge."

Among different "knowledges" Spencer says:

First, knowledge of self-preservation; without that we wouldn't last.

Second, indirect self-preservation, knowing how to make a living that you may go on living.

Third, knowledge of the duties of parents, for while the State is higher than the family, it cannot prosper, unless the family is properly cared for.

Next, after education that prepares for parenthood, comes education that prepares for citizenship, and last "the miscellaneous refinements of life," music, poetry, painting, etc. They come distinctly last.

Education is valuable in two ways. First, as knowledge, and second, as discipline.

There is absolute knowledge, such as "twice two make four," or "the resistance of water to a body moving through it varies as the square of the velocity." That knowledge will be as valuable and necessary a million years hence.

There is another kind of knowledge of history, of literature, important because such knowledge feeds the mind and helps it to grow. It will be totally unimportant a million years from now, when all that we know of history and literature will not be worth three lines.

We need to know about ourselves, but in the world ten thousand men know about a carburetor for one that knows about the Eustachian tubes that carry infection to the ears and cause mastoiditis in children.

The man who would blush if he put the accent on the wrong syllable in the word Iphigenia, say on the ante-penult, instead of on the penult, where it belongs, is not ashamed to confess that he never heard of a ductless gland.

Many ask, "Of what use is education?" Mathematics builds your houses, railroads and bridges. Physics gave you the steam engine. Chemistry gives you fertilisers, medicines, dyes, methods of obtaining copper, zinc, gold, also your home distilling.

Biology, study of life, is worth while. It tells you that when your sheep are dying of "the staggers" you can save them by taking out a little "entozoon" pressing on the brain. A soft spot in the skull tells where.

Is geology useless? Not exactly. Millions have been saved by knowledge that in digging for coal you should stop when you come to a fossil in old red sandstone. There is never any coal below that. And so on indefinitely.

Mothers should read Spencer's pages on "Results of Parental Ignorance." For one parent that seriously studies the problem of raising children, forty farmers study seriously the problem of raising pigs. Pigs cost money and are salable.

About the mind, as about the body of the child, parents know little.

"She (the mother) knows nothing about the nature of the emotions, their order of evolution, their functions, or where use ends and abuse begins. She is under the impression that some of the feelings are wholly bad, which is not true of any one of them; and that others are good, however far they may be carried, which is also not true of any one of them."

Necessary instincts and emotions the mother looks upon with horror. She acts upon her child "by threats and bribes, or by exciting in it a desire for applause, thus cultivating hypocrisy, fear and selfishness in place of good feeling."

And "while insisting upon truthfulness, she constantly sets an example of untruth, by threatening penalties which she does not inflict. While inculcating self-control, she hourly visits on her little ones scoldings for acts that do not call for them."

The formal instruction of children is begun too soon, instead of letting them learn, as one should all through life, that which one learns most easily at the time. Children at first should learn with their eyes and ears only, getting in that way, before they are seven, more information than in all the rest of their life put together, including the use of their language and their bodies. They must not then be crowded with such things "as grammar, which should come quite late."

When a child dies of scarlet fever and the doctor says it died because weakened by overstudy it is for the mother "small consolation that she can read Dante in the original."

We haven't many mothers in this country that read Dante in the original, but many that force knowledge unwisely upon their children, ruining digestion and nervous system, foolish enough to believe that the way "to give my child the advantages I lacked" is to stuff that child with knowledge as a Strasburg goose is stuffed with food to make its liver swell.

An ant in the path is much interested in the dead caterpillar, not interested in the five cattle. And, as Herbert Spencer puts it "men are indifferent to the grandest phenomena—care not to understand the architecture of the heavens, but are deeply interested in some contemptible controversy about the intrigues of Mary Queen of Scots." Or as an American might put it, "care a lot about scandal but not a cuss about astronomy."

As you read and think about education, slowly climbing the hill to old age, do not be discouraged by the mass of detail or let it hold you back.

The young surgeon, if conscientious must study anatomy at least half a dozen times, and before he knows it. You need not know so much about it. There were when Herbert Spencer wrote three hundred and twenty thousand species of plants, two million different kinds of animal life, and many more of each are listed now.

With books, even the great books, it must be with the majority of us as with cities. You may know something about Paris, London, Rome, the Athens of today and of two thousand years ago, without actually seeing those cities, without studying every block and every street.

Photography has made possible wide, inspiring knowledge of foreign places. What man has not clearly in his mind the Palace of the Doges in Venice, the magnificent chapel decorated by Michael Angelo in St. Peter's, the Taj Mahal, the great wall of China, the locks in the Panama Canal, the Washington Monument —a hundred other thinks worth while?

Some day an intelligent group of students will do for knowledge, for great books and important lives, what the camera has done for knowledge of places and things.

You need not know the names of two million different animals to be interested in the pouch that holds the half formed baby kangaroo, the animal that is a duck at one end, a rat at the other; the giraffe's long neck, the armadillo's armor.

You need not have read, as Buckle is said to have done, thirty thousand volumes, or even the six thousand that Voltaire read and marked, in order to have the skeleton of an education. Get the skeleton, fill it out at leisure.

Appleton and Company print Spencer's books.

Some intelligent person should put in one volume all the absolutely essential in Spencer, Rousseau, Pestalozzi and Froebel, in plain language.

Spencer says:

"What kind of moral discipline is to be expected from a mother who, time after time, angrily shakes her infant because it will not suckle her, which we once saw a mother do? How much love of justice and generosity is likely to be instilled by a father who, on having his attention drawn by his child's scream to the fact that its finger is jammed between the window sash and the sill, forthwith begins to beat the child instead of releasing it? That there are such fathers is testified to us by an eye-witness." Pride, however, is a weakening vice; avoid it. Read Spencer.
